

The Marvelous Adventures of Cyclone

by PJ

It was a very dark and foreboding night. There was a whisper of wind through the trees in an abandoned street alleyway. I looked up into the the luminous milky white eyes of an immense shape shrouded in a cloak of darkness. His cold rasping voice ricocheted off the thick stone walls on either side of the alleyway.

"I will destroy you and demolish everything you care about, puny Cyclone."

I struggled to keep my mind clear of the ever impending shadow. I realized that I was the only one capable of eradicating this menace. I stood my ground now resolved, a look of solid determination on my scarred and windswept face. I suddenly broke out into a run, leaping up onto the shape, my crude silver staff flashing in the moonlight as I prepared to land an almighty blow to the figure... I could only pray that the radiant, sickly green radioactive liquid that my good friend, The Cloaker (and fellow superhero), had injected into my veins. I later learned that this substance had given me my powers and me prepared for this monumental confrontation... You must have countless questions by this point. Let's back up, I'll tell you how it all started...

Getting my powers was something that I never requested. It was also a little bit painful... As a toddler, waking up on Earth was a mind boggling sight. I had grown up with seeing glowing and hovering pieces of technology, not hunks of metal roaring down a tarmac path. Say, I bet you're wondering why I was used to such ludicrous things as that. Well I actually was born on the planet you earthlings call star system MSC1932. It was discovered in the year 2000 by the Hubble space telescope. In our society, if you do something unsatisfactory you get jettisoned into the cold, dark, vacuum of space in a tiny pod with absolutely no provisions. The pod has utterly no controls. One would be left to rot in space letting you think about the wrongdoings you might have committed. As for me, the way I reached Earth was a little different... Late one evening after just having a exquisite meal, I was all tucked into my cozy bed when I heard a noise of someone in pain. It was then quickly silenced. Somebody was dead... A man in a uniform (that I didn't recognise) came bursting into my bedroom. I really don't know how he possibly expected a mere infant to be responsible for a violent murder. Anyways, they grabbed hold of me and hurled me into one of the many pods that would be blasted into space at the push of a button. Suddenly another toddler roughly my age stepped into the pod, and with a short yelp of pain from me, injected yours truly with a glowing foul-smelling liquid. Without warning the airlock door slammed shut, and then I was flung into the wall from the immense thrust of the pod as I careened through space. Then, I fell into unconsciousness...

Soon after I passed through Earth's troposphere and touched down on on its surface, a boy very similar to the one who had instilled me with, what I later found out was radioactive fluid, seemed almost as interested in me as I was with him. Right behind the boy was a crowd of very curious earthlings. Soon enough, I found myself being taken to one of the earthling's secret bases or what they called "homes." The very next day I was being taken to Woodriver Elementary School highly unwillingly. I seemed to have grown as I hurtled through space because a found myself in a sixth grade classroom. On the desk it said that my name was Roberto Acclamante. Perfect secret identity! I thought. (Sixth grade I thought was one of the most challenging classes in the whole school. But not for me!) What pretty much sums up my first day of school was disaster...

Right before lunch when I was washing my hands, a guy named Bob slammed into me knocking me to the cold tile near the sink. With anger suddenly welling within me, my hands were beginning to glow with a strange yellow light. Beams shot out of my hands and soared into the drain of the sink. Water burst out of the sink breaking the tap clean off, as a tidal wave of water smashed into Bob carrying him across the length of the classroom. I was dumbfounded. I focused my gaze on the glimmering surface. The water, in a frenzy, was almost exuberant to do my bidding. When I arrived at the principal's office annoyed and frustrated at how people thought I had any sort of control over what I had done. There was a roaring fire under the principal's mantelpiece. He told me that I would have to do math under his supervision. I found math quite a breeze, as I could work out the most complex math problems in a fraction of the time it took him. He actually seemed to be displeased that I was so much better than he was at math. But it wasn't only math that I excelled at as I later found out. As the hours passed by the fire seemed to be whispering something to me. I made it swell and diminish by just telling it to in my head. I started to feel very uneasy about what I was able to do: control the elements of fire and water.

Then I felt a sharp pain in my chest... There was a bag of Cheetos on the principal's desk that he must have gotten from the staff vending machine. Just by looking at the neon orange bag, the pain redoubled. I reached for the bag and ate one Cheeto... I had never felt pain like this in my whole life. White hot searing pain was grinding needles into every inch of my body. Then I regurgitated. (Problem solved.) I can tell you that the whole thing was quite astounding to the principal. He quickly called a custodian. From then on I knew that my weakness was Cheetos.

I decided to take up wrestling after school. Every single person that I challenged went off looking sulky, beaten. One evening after wrestling practice I saw an old man being mugged in a dark alleyway. I ran to help the old man, picking up a mangled trash can lid and flinging the lid like a frisbee so hard at the perpetrator. It hit him squarely in the chest, he collapsed in a crumpled heap completely senseless. The old man managed to utter the words

"My hero!"

And then he fainted from exhaustion. I called 911 in nearby telephone booth. As the wailing sounds of the police automobiles grew nearer, I realized that I was a hero. But a super one... I deemed the colors crimson and gold to represent my code of conduct: freedom, justice, peace, and sanity. Although, there was going to be much more crime-fighting than I ever anticipated...

I knew from an early age that the world isn't all perfect. From all the world's chaos and crime rose an evil mastermind called Black Whisper who would change my life completely. (His real name was Jim. He thought Black Whisper would be way cooler.) Anyways, he wanted to take over all the capital cities in every country to strike fear into anybody that would challenge him... Now, you're probably wondering why he got so bad-tempered. Well, he was really a quite nice person to start with. He lived on the very planet I came from. (MSC1932) He never had a family that cared about little Jim. He was treated like a dog that rolled in something funny. Now you can imagine how somebody would feel if they were treated like that. Some might feel angry, some might feel depressed or sad. You can most likely guess which one he was: angry.

He was discovered murdering an innocent person, infact, the exact day I was flung into one of the pods... He got thrown off into space almost right after I was. He came to earth about eighteen hours after I touched down. (His pod did not have as much fuel as mine. People on my planet/star system MSC1932 like to mix up things like that to be unpredictable.) A deranged toddler named Jim that likes to kill innocent people with unbelievable powers is appropriate to be compared with a diamondback rattlesnake that had just been force fed hot sauce. (Very dangerous; if you didn't know.) He took all his anger out on the world. Only I was there to stop him... After all, I was a superhero.

Black Whisper who had not been sighted for many years suddenly became known throughout the world in a matter of days...

BOOM! I was just eating a bowl of Honey-Nut Cheerios when I found my face buried in the bowl from what seemed like an earthquake. I cursed,

"!@#%^&*" (I don't want to say the real thing)

as I wiped my face clean of cheerios and drew the curtains of my window overlooking the town square. A scene of pure carnage met my eyes. Cars overturned, city buses smashed to a piles of metal. In the middle of all of it was a some sort of madman dressed in black robes, a black tunic, and wearing black socks, cackling as he crushed a semi-truck with some sort of telekinesis. (This dude really likes black!) Then without warning he disappeared... Suddenly he reappeared with a sharp CRACK right inside my locked apartment that I lived in with my parents. He said in a rasping voice:

"Why resist fate?"

"Why not join me so we can rule the world together, as an invincible pair?"

"I would never join you, you slimy fleabitten hound!" I shouted.

"Then you leave me no choice but to destroy you..."

I grabbed my silver staff disguised as an umbrella, and lunged at the cloaked Black Whisper... CRACK! I found myself in a dark, dank abandoned alleyway at what seemed around the witching hour. (Or midnight) Black Whisper was standing at the far end of the alleyway. It looked as if he was summoning a sword from the shadows because when he drew away he had a broadsword of black iron. He pointed it at me and and charged, I prepared to parry the blow with my staff. The clang of the weapons was deafening. I went on the offensive, my battle cry echoing off the thick stone walls. Joust after joust, slash after slash, never tiring, it seemed as if we were locked in eternal combat. Although, one move made all the difference...

After what seemed like hours I started to hallucinate. Or that is what I thought... I saw another dark figure swirl around me, doing what looked like, helping me fight Black Whisper. All of a sudden the trance was broken. Shaking the groggy feeling away, what I saw was astounding. The kid that had injected me with that weird liquid was fighting Black Whisper right along side me. With newfound determination I spotted a water tower on top of a nearby building...

Since my time in the principal's office I had found out how exactly to control my powers of intelligence, fighting skills, and the ability to control fire and water through much trial and tribulation. Such as after my meet with the principal I found out that my powers only responded to emotion. (I was angry that Bob pushed me over. Now I don't have to worry about my hands glowing in a public meeting!) Anyways, I willed the water inside the watertower to burst forward, rupturing the steel sides. The bright yellow light subsiding from my hands, the water, without any sign of disobedience followed my orders to slam into Black Whisper with a tremendous amount of force...

The water, knocking Black Whisper to the ground with the force of a charging rhino, had now recided it having done my bidding. The other cloaked figure held a lighter and nodded to me, and right after he had, he threw what look a lot like and armed grenade into the air right at Black Whisper, jolting me from my stupor. And, right as it was flying through the air, I willed the ignited flame to leap onto the grenade... Light shot out of my hands detonating the grenade much sooner than it would have on its own. The grenade went sailing past me and right into the maw of Black Whisper... You can guess what happened. Well actually you don't. He survived the blast and was brought to justice by (he told me his name) The Cloaker and myself, Cyclone. Or so we thought...

After many hours of interviews with NBC news, I was finally able to push past the crowd and catch a cab back to our apartment, my bowl of very soggy Cheerios still on the kitchen table. Looking out the window, the flashing lights of the police cars still surrounding the scene of carnage. The damage was devastating. Talking to NBC earlier today was very demoralizing. They estimated that the total cost of the destruction was about ten billion dollars. The repairs to the surrounding buildings took quite some time, roughly seven months.

The Cloaker and myself had become good pals after our famous battle with Black Whisper. We were walking in central park at around dusk, in autumn, the leaves blowing all around us. Without warning, a BANG! resounded across the whole park. Both of us took battle stances, our costumes standing out in the sunset. I whipped out my staff and brandished it in the direction of the noise. The Cloaker did the same. (He has a pink staff with unicorns on it.) To my astonishment a bloodied up and scarred Black Whisper rose out of the darkness... Suddenly, I found myself being lifted off the ground, by Black Whisper's telekinesis. Unable to break free, desperately trying to free myself from his grasp, The Cloaker ran over to me and bounded up onto the towering figure of Black Whisper... Concentrating on me, Black Whisper barely even noticed. Slashing into Black Whisper's side with his staff, The Cloaker jumped off of Black Whisper. I dropped to the ground. Black Whisper now distracted, The Cloaker pulled a jar with something swirling inside out of the folds of his cloak and lobbed it at me, catching it I threw it at Black Whisper with all the strength I could muster...

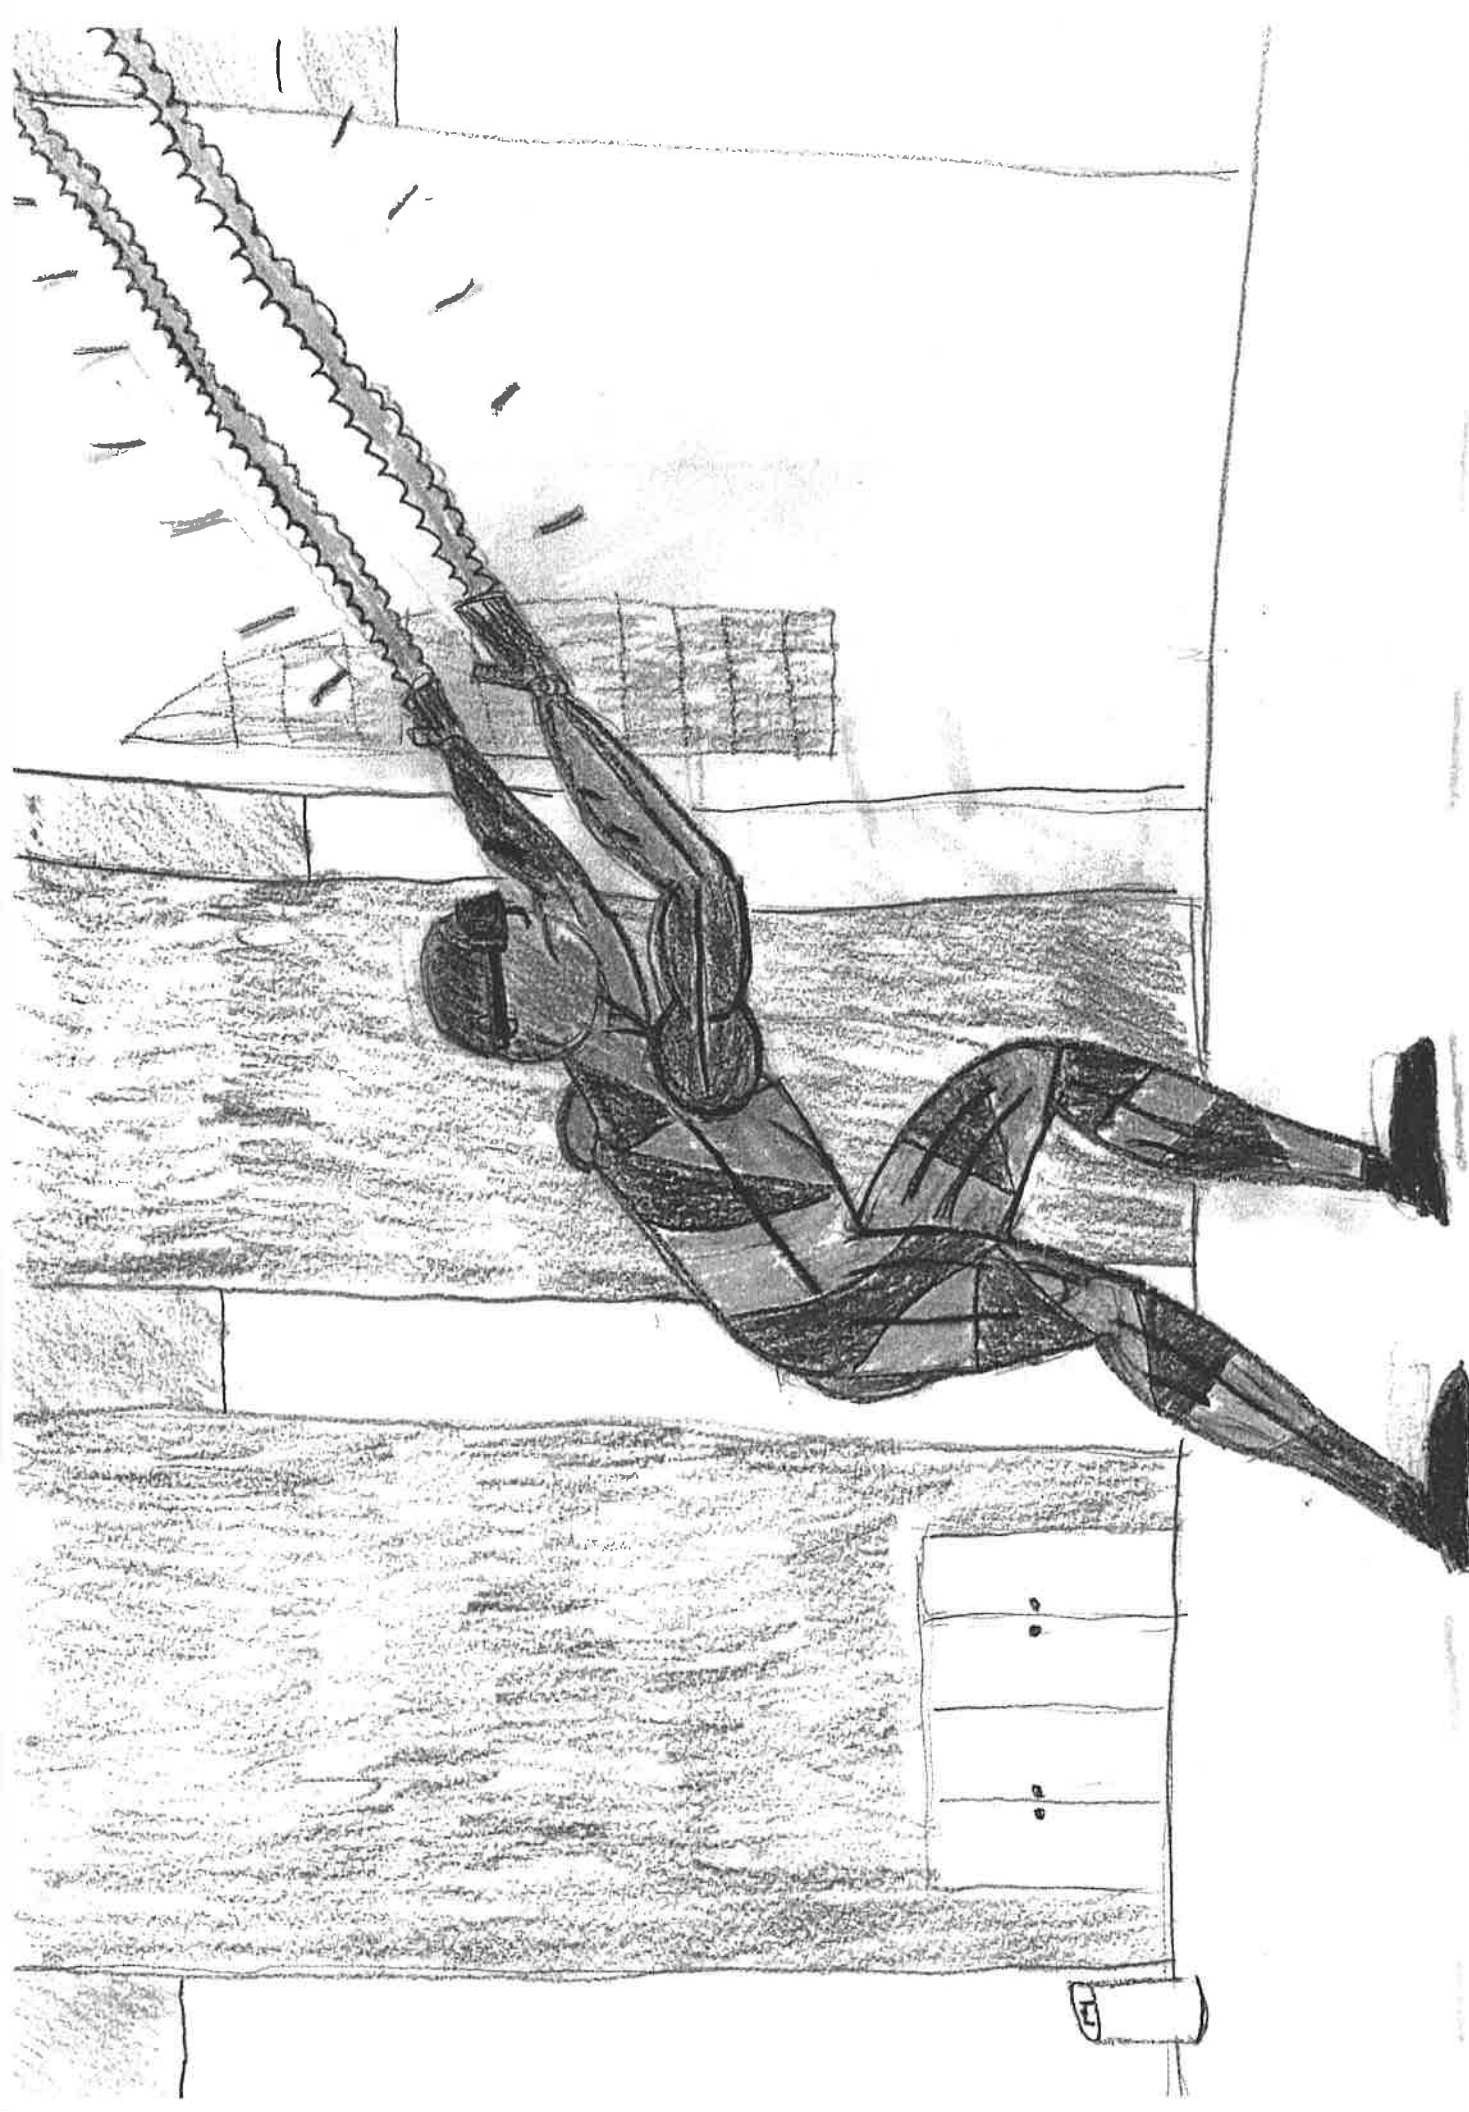

Shattering on impact, the swirling fog-like thing engulfed him and a moment later he was nowhere to be seen... I asked The Cloaker if this was maybe one of his disappearing tricks. He shook his head. Black Whisper had been eliminated from this dimension... After all this, The Cloaker and I went our separate ways, back to our normal lives...

Well, these were dark times for me, but I managed to get through them. It was hard but I pulled through. After discovering my amazing powers, learning to use them and battling a psychotic lunatic/homicidal killing machine that likes black, and making friends with a mysterious portal/grenade dude, I decided to go back to a normal life at my adoptees' apartment and start my earth-like education. The lesson that I learned over the past week was probably: cross your fingers (and your toes) that you aren't a superhero, and if you are, then I strongly suggest keeping a low profile for a while rather than busting down doors and fighting crime. Here is my advice if you really want to do this: Try to solve things peacefully rather than going around punching thieves' noses through the back of their heads. If everyone had superpowers than what would the world be like? What would it mean for the world? Would the world be more safe? Or would the world be more dangerous? Imagine if everyone did. What would happen?...

THUNDER BOY - THE HOCKEY HERO

By Landon [REDACTED]

In the city of YoMacka there was a young boy named Yohan Kehn he was in the 6th grade and one day the world was shaking and it did not stop shaking so he went outside and saw a huge plane crashing into YoMacka city. Yohan went to see who it was and someone came out of the plane that he did not know, so he went up to him and asked "who are you?"

The man said "I'm your enemy" and Yohan said " I don't even know who you are" and the strange man said "I am Iceman and in one week I will destroy the YoMacka Ice Arena!"

Luckily, Yohan has a unique power unlike any other boy in the world that will be no match for Iceman.

Yohan Kehn is a 12 year old boy with a interesting super power that he was given at a young age. Yohan was struck by lightning and from then on he could make and stop thunder and lightning by using his mind. Yohan had a interesting childhood because he was scared a lot since he didn't understand his power until he met a master storm maker who taught him how to use the power for good. His name was Master Thunder Boom. He taught Yohan that the weakness of all master storm makers is ice. Master storm makers like Yohan and Master Thunder Boom freeze if they come in contact with ice. Master Thunder Boom was very old, but before he passed on to the other side he passed all of his knowledge on to Yohan. Once he felt Yohan had mastered the power, he honored him with the super hero name of Thunder Boy and designed his costume. Thunder Boy is always dressed in his blue, purple and yellow storm suit which proudly has a T on the chest. Yohan had always had Master Thunder Boom to mentor him and since he was gone, Yohan had to really become Thunder Boy to face Iceman alone.

Thunder Boy said to himself "I don't need Master Thunder Boom to help me, I can do it on my own, he taught me well." After a couple of days of practicing, Thunder Boy had stopped and started many thunder and lightning storms with his mind and was ready to save YoMacka Ice Arena from the evil villain Iceman.

The next few days were very strange. Thunder Boy waited anxiously for the showdown with Iceman. The weather in YoMacka had become very odd. It started to snow and it never snowed in YoMacka before. Today is the day Thunder Boy had been preparing for and he was ready to take on what Iceman had in store for him. Iceman planned to destroy the YoMacka Ice arena by freezing the whole building into a solid block of ice. This would mean that all the kids in YoMacka wouldn't be able to play hockey anymore and that was a sport they loved. Thunder Boy didn't want to see the dreams of all these kids destroyed, so he knew he would need to use his thunder and lightning powers to break Iceman's ice cubes.

The time has come! Iceman was ready to freeze the arena into a giant block of ice. Thunder Boy used his mind to create a huge thunderstorm that would melt the ice cubes. Iceman got very angry and froze Thunder Boy into a little boy sized block of ice!

"AHHH that's my weakness, the ice, I need to get myself out of this," said Thunder Boy. Thunder Boy was still able to use his powers and struck himself with lightning to remove himself from the ice clutches. Iceman then tried to freeze Thunder Boy, but he was able to escape the block of ice and strike Iceman with a bolt of lightning! Iceman got into the YoMacka Ice Arena but there waiting was the YoMacka Generals Hockey team. The Generals were able to help Thunder Boy knock Ice Man down.

"Take that" said the Generals captain Johnny Hockey as the entire team charged Iceman and knocked him over! Then, Dave the Zamboni driver drove over the Iceman capturing him under the ice!

Thunder Boy thanked the Generals and Dave the Zamboni Driver for their help. "Thank you" said Thunder Boy. "What do we do with the Iceman" said Dave?

Thunder Boy thought long and hard and asked Iceman, "would you like to be on our team now?" Ice Man asked, "on your team?"

"Yes" said Thunder Boy and then Dave said "I want to retire and am looking for a new ice caretaker." Iceman was so excited about his new job taking over for Dave the Zamboni Driver.

Thanks to the hard work and bravery of Thunder Boy, the Generals and Dave the Zamboni driver all the kids in YoMacka got to keep playing hockey and follow their dreams and Iceman got a job to keep him out of trouble.

From that day on, Thunder Boy and Iceman were good friends and they worked together to help the kids of YoMacka keep playing hockey in a nice hockey arena where only the ice was frozen like it's supposed to be. It never did snow again in YoMacka. Thunder Boy knew that Master Thunder Boom would be proud of him. This was the first time he had to use his powers to face an evil villain and he took everything he learned and used it to save the hockey town. It goes to show that together we are stronger than we are alone and sometimes if we have a purpose or in the case of Iceman, a job, we can focus on that instead of causing trouble. Iceman enjoyed his new job at the YoMacka Ice Arena. Dave the Zamboni Driver enjoyed his retirement while Thunder Boy and Iceman enjoyed many years of friendship.

Thunder Boy said, "imagine if everyone would just be friends and give each other a chance, the world would be a better place."

Speed Dominator Girl and the Battle for Martopia Jayda

It was a normal day in Martopia when everything was peaceful and everyone was happy. I was in my lair prepared for any crime or threat that was to come. Then something had changed. I went over to the radio listening to the news. There was a voice speaking. It was a dark and deep voice. The person speaking was threatening to erase humankind from the Earth. I ran outside to the town square. It was at that moment I knew that my life would be changed forever. I looked on top of city hall. An alien from Mars was standing there ready to destroy. Luckily there was one person strong enough to fight for the people. With a brave expression on my face, I knew I was the only one that had the courage and power to stand up for the people. I stood there looking at him ready for a fight. The Speed Dominator girl was there to help.

One day I was outside having a nice, quiet picnic. I was sitting in the grass examining nature and all of my surroundings. I looked up and I noticed that the clouds were getting dark. Out of nowhere, a terrible storm had come. There was lightning flashing and thunder booming all around me. It was pouring down rain. I knew I had to take cover. I was running to a cave but I knew it was too late. I was struck by a special blue lightning bolt that had mixed with the particles of space and come thundering down. The next day after the accident, my friend Jane came looking for me. I had told her I was coming to her house to hang out. She must have been waiting for a long time. She had come to find me after I didn't respond to her texts. When she looked around and found me lying on the grass, she drove me to the hospital right away.

They did not think I would make it. A few days passed. I wasn't doing well. The next day, the machine next to me started to go crazy, and all of a sudden I woke up. As soon as my eyes opened, red lasers were flashing everywhere. I started teleporting everywhere around the city. I could see people looking confused at me when I teleported somewhere. When I finally stopped, I was sitting back in the hospital bed staring at the wall. I was terrified at what was going on. When the nurse came to check on me, I made eye contact with her and she started walking back and forth between my room and another patient's room. When we made eye contact with each other again, she stopped walking back and forth between the rooms came back in to check on me. I wondered what was happening to me and I teleported to this old warehouse. I saw my friend Jane standing in front of me. She said she knew what had happened to me and took me into the warehouse.

There was special hi-tech equipment everywhere and the walls were lined with steel so the things inside were protected. I was amazed at what I had seen. I saw a bag of coal in the corner. When I went to look at it, I fell and started to feel very weak. She came over to help me and threw the bag of coal out. She told me coal was my weakness. She said it was to make some of the formula used to go in some of the equipment. She told me she used to be a scientist that was fired by the government. She was fired because she had made a freeze ray gun that had gone haywire and made a huge explosion. It had damaged the top half of the building she worked in. She had gotten in trouble for it and lost her job. The explosion caused her to get ice powers because it had broken and the ice formula inside it had dripped onto her. She said she had become a superhero and made a promise to help anyone who got powers and help them fight evil. She took me to this case with two suits in it. One was a black and white and all sparkly. She told me that was her suit. The one next to it was mine. She had made it when she found me outside. It was black, white, and gold. She had initials on her suit that she said stood for Super Freezer. They both had black masks that covered around our eyes to hide our identity. She asked me what my powers were. I told her there were lasers flashing out of my eyes when I woke up in the hospital, I had controlled a nurse's mind, and I had teleported in spots all over the city. She asked me what I wanted my name to be. After a few minutes I came up with the name Speed Dominator Girl because I could teleport everywhere fast and I could cut and melt anything with my laser eyes. She told me she was going to teach me how to use and control my powers.

The next day she told me I could try on my suit to see how I like it. When I tried it on, I felt like I was invincible. I started to try to cut a rock she gave me to try out my laser eyes. When I cut right through it, I felt very powerful. She put a dog in front of me so I could practice my mind control. I tried to make it stand up and spin but all it did was plop down and roll over. Jane said I would get it next time and we moved on to practicing my teleportation. When I tried to teleport to the other end of the room, I only got a few feet in front of where I had been. When I tried again, I went backwards and landed right in front of the wall. After a few days, I started to learn how to control my powers and started to move on to harder things. When I had mastered all of my powers, Jane gave me a test. When I did perfect on it, she said I was ready to start helping the city and fighting crime.

When Jane told me about a robbery at an electronics store, I quickly ran to the spot where it was happening. When I got there, I saw a red man with a gray suit on standing in front of me. He said that his name was Mega Martian. He was threatening to wipe humankind from the Earth. When I asked him what he wanted, he said he wanted all of the technology from the Earth. He said he would destroy all of the humans if I did not give it to him. I told him I wanted to help him find out how to get him what he wants. He exclaimed,

"I became a villain because my mother went to jail because I had broken one of the most important laws on Mars." "I had taken a spaceship to earth." "A human almost saw me." "After the day my mother was put in jail, my heart was filled with hatred and I decided to become a villain." When he finished talking, he kicked me back and said he was never going to let any human help him. He went back into the store and gathered the rest of the electronics. He came out with the things that he had stolen and kicked me down again to make sure I would not follow him. He ran towards the woods and yelled "I'll be back!" and vanished out of sight. I ran back to the warehouse to tell Jane.

When I went back to the base and told Jane about it she said that I could fight Mega Martian and defeat him by making a trap and we could put him in jail. I went back to the spot where Mega Martian had ran into the woods and followed his trail up to a big metal spaceship. I was shocked at how big it was. The Door was open and I was curious so I walked inside. When I went inside, there were lights everywhere. When I went deeper into it, I saw Mega Martian. I hid behind a pole and listened to he was saying to the green man that was following him. He must have been his assistant. I listened to what Mega Martian was telling him. I heard him say

" I need that tech fast." " The ship is going to die soon and we need to get going."

When he finished talking, I knew what his plan was. He was going to try to take technology from the whole world to get his ship back to Mars. He was going to use a vacuum sucker to get all of it and if he didn't get it by tomorrow, he was going to wipe humankind from the Earth and take over the planet. Mega Martian started walking toward me and I jumped out in front of him.

I said "Why won't you just let me help you?" "We can work together to solve this problem."

He said,

" I have always hated humans and I will never want to team up with one!"

I told him, I just want to help you!" " I just became a superhero and I want to prove myself to the people that they can depend on me if there is any crime or trouble going on in the city."

He tried to shoot me with a lava gun. I quickly teleported behind him and kicked him forward. He turned and tried to control me with his mind controlling powers, but I fought with mine and won. I cut a big metal pole that landed on him. I asked him,

"Why are you so angry and destructive?" and he said,

" I became a villain because my mother went to jail. She was put in jail because I had broken one of the most important laws on Mars." "I had taken a spaceship to earth and a human almost saw me." "After the day my mother was put in jail, my heart was filled with hatred and anger at the humans so I decided to become a villain." I ran out of the spaceship when he finished talking and hid behind a tree. I waited for him, but his assistant came out instead. He had the lava gun in his hands. I stayed quiet, trying not to make any noise.

He exclaimed in a high pitched squeaky voice,

" I'm not afraid of you!"

I teleported behind him and said

"Boo!"

He got scared, dropped the gun he was holding and ran away into the woods. Mega Martian came out from the spaceship and tried to shoot me with the lava gun his assistant dropped. I teleported to the warehouse and I told Jane that Mega Martian was coming. She quickly changed into her suit and we both ran outside. Since the warehouse was on the edge of town, Mega Martian was able to get there fast. He had figured out what my weakness was because he had set up a camera in the warehouse because he had figured out that it was mine and Janes lair. He had a bag of coal in his hand and was trying to throw it at me. Jane hit the bag of coal and threw it into the pond. We fought him until we were in town, but he was still very strong. Jane had told me she had set a trap so when Mega Martian stepped into an invisible circle she had made with an invisible rope, it would catch his leg and hold him upside down and it would swing him to the jail and lock him into a special cell where he can't use his power and it would trap him forever so he can't get the technology he wants. He shot the city hall with his lava gun to try and distract us. Then he made even more damage to the buildings around us. He said, " Ha ha ha ha!" He tripped while he was running and his arm fell into the invisible rope. He got flung into the jail cell. After he got into the jail cell, he didn't come out.

After the fight, me and Jane were relieved that we had won the fight. The whole world was going to know about the big fight in Martopia. All the citizens of the town came out of their vehicles and houses. One person asked us,

" What's going to happen next?"

I told him that we were going to help all of them fix the city and help pay for all of the damage. We worked to get all of the debris off of the roads so the citizens could drive. Then I used my laser eyes to melt all the poles back together. We had to work for a few days to get all of the buildings that got damaged fixed. We had to clear out the city hall because it got completely destroyed. The citizens were going to help raise money to build it again. Luckily, Mega Martain's assistant was found and caught by the police and put in jail. When we got enough money to build the city hall, we used it to make shooters that could build up walls after the frame was put on. The material in the shooter used to make the walls hardened and was almost as strong as a rock and the windows were bullet proof. We had cleared up all of the damage except for the veterans hall. We had a building with all of the peoples names that fought in the World War II. We could not replace that. We moved on and the city returned to normal.

After that day, my life changed. Mega Martian had made a huge impact on my life. He had changed everything and everyone. He did a lot of damage and tried to steal from the whole world. In the end, he had a big consequence for trying to take from the whole city. Him and his assistant ended up defeated and in jail. It ended with some good things and some bad things happening. I learned a big lesson that day. I learned that you can't fix some things. Some things just can't be fixed. Then the whole world would be perfect. Imagine if everyone was perfect all the time.

FIRE, AIR, and WATER KID

By Nathan

Faw took off, and right as he did that, Normando the giant, grabbed a golden staff that was leaning against the wall and threw it like a javelin. It struck where Faw had just been. Faw ducked, dodged, and dived while leading the big mass outside and away from all of the gold. One time, he made a mistake of getting too close to Normando, and the giant hit him hard in the chest. That sent him sprawling across the ground paralyzed, and when he looked up, he thought it was over. But it wasn't. His paralysis wore off and he jumped up, harnessed the wind and took flight. When he was a considerable distance from his enemy he turned around. As the big hulking mass tried to reach him with its pure gold staff, he burst into flames. Then he dived. As he dove at the monstrosity in front of him, he thought of what had happened earlier.

As John Kidd woke up, he knew something was wrong. Now, John wasn't a normal kid. When he was three months old, an evil giant named Normando took him and brought him to his lair. Normando did an evil experiment on John that went wrong and instead of making John his strongest minion, he gave him three elemental powers. First was the ability to control water. Second was the ability to make and use fire including covering himself in it and throwing fireballs. Third and foremost was the ability to control the wind and air itself so that he could fly and make other things float in the air. The downside to that was that his weakness was gold. John nicknamed himself Faw for Fire, Air, and Water.

He got up and changed into a T-shirt with an American flag on it and faded jeans. He went down and poured himself a big bowl of Fruit Loops. As he ate, he noticed that it was pretty quiet. John lived in a suburban area just outside of San Francisco. He looked outside and jumped from his chair. There was a big storm just above Angel Hill. The hill was called Angel Hill because it was the most beautiful, lush, greenest hill around. It was so pretty that it practically gave off its' own light. Now, it was gray and dead looking. John ran out the door and took flight.

As John flew, he wondered what was going on. This wasn't just any storm. It was only above Angel Hill and wasn't moving anywhere else.

"It's probably Normando the giant", John thought.

Normando is a giant and he has been trying to kill me ever since his experiment went wrong. As John got closer, he saw some things that he couldn't see from far away. The storm wasn't really a storm. It was a whirling cloud of dust! As John touched down he reversed the way the cloud was blowing so that it settled down and then he pushed the dust out of the way so he could see. There, looming above him was a humongous cave with jagged rocks on the top and bottom so that it looked like a mouth. He lit a small fire in his hand and walked in.

What he saw in there almost made him crumble with fear. There, loads upon loads, tons upon tons, were hundreds, possibly thousands, of gold bars. John's weakness. As he looked around at the horrifying sight, he didn't notice how small the fire in his hand was getting.

"Hello", boomed a voice behind him.

John spun around and realized that he was looking at a giant.

"Normando!" Stan said in an angered voice.

"We meet again. I've been looking forward to seeing you." said the giant.

"I haven't", said John in an irritated voice.

"Yes, well, we haven't seen each other in, what was it? 9 years?" asked Normando.

"Ten", said John.

“Right, and that time I tried to turn you into one of my minions”, said Normando.

“That reminds me,” said John, “where are your minions that you always hide behind until you can get a good shot at your enemy.”

“Right here”, said Normando.

Suddenly, deformed shapes rushed at John from all sides but John had been preparing for that. He summoned a fire to circle him, but couldn't.

“Have you forgotten”, said Normando, “that you are surrounded by thousands of tons of gold? Bring him to the Golden Lake!” He barked at his minions.

“The Golden Lake?” thought John, “That can't be good.”

It wasn't. It was a lake made out of pure, liquified gold. Normando had forgotten one thing though. When they left the cave, John wasn't surrounded by gold anymore. He burst into flames, making the minions drop him and run. Then, all of a sudden, Normando came bounding out of the cave and threw a golden spear at John. John just flicked his hand and the staff spun around and hit Normando square in the chest.

The only problem with a giant is that their hide is so tough that swords and things just bounce off of them. The downside to that is that if they make the weapon themselves, then that giant and all other giants are vulnerable to it. So, seeing as how Normando made that staff himself, it punctured his skin but didn't make a very big hole because it was made to hit John, not him.

He howled with rage and as he did that, John took off. But seeing as how that golden staff got close to him, the after effects were still wearing off and his takeoff was slow at first. Normando was turned around and, as quick as a snake, he threw a razor sharp javelin at John. John just barely got out off the way as that javelin flew past him and hit the rock behind him. Normando grabbed the staff that was still embedded in his chest and tried to whack John.

John ducked and dodged until one time, he flew too close and got whacked in the chest. Since gold is Faw's weakness, it sent tingles down his spine and paralyzed him for a minute. That sent him sprawling across the ground, and when he looked up at the huge giant, he thought it was over. But it wasn't. His weakness wore off and he jumped up, harnessed the wind and took flight. When he was a considerable distance from his enemy he turned around. Then, he lit himself on fire and dove.

Now we return to where we left off where John is diving at Normando.

LISTEN CLOSELY.

Right before John made contact, he pulled out of the dive, showering Normando in sparks and fire. Howling, Normando did a very uncoordinated dance trying to shake the embers off and as he did that, John pulled some water from the nearby river and circled the giant with it. Then, he closed his hand and the circle of water turned into a gleaming sphere of water. Then, he lifted his hand and the sphere rose with it. Finally, he swung his hand like it was a baseball bat hitting a homerun and threw Normando as far away as possible. When the sphere hit the ocean, it exploded, making Normando disappear with it once and for all.

After it was all said and done, John brought some water out again and thoroughly washed Angel hill with it and flew home. When he got home, he finished his breakfast and looked out the window at Angel hill, just like he did a few hours ago. He thought about the fight and how he defeated Normando. He wondered how Normando got all that gold though. As he finished breakfast, he thought, "What would happen if there was a villain that I couldn't defeat and he captured me so that I couldn't get away. And of course no one can help me because I'm the only one?"

OR AM I?

The Wrath Of Doomfist

By Craig

It was a dark and stormy night, lightning flashed through the road There flashed Doomfist's shadow. Doomfist was a horrible villain , he Would destroy buildings, make disastrous disasters, but only one hero can stop the wrath of this disgusting villain who sometimes picks his Nose, and the hero was R.A.M.P.A.G.E...His real name was Henry Redwood, R.A.M.P.A.G.E was the only person who could defeat DoomFist. Doomfist's weakness is Telekenisis, Doomfist can be a wuss sometimes. BUT, R.A.M.P.A.G.E on the other hand is a pretty tough man. One time There were cars smoking, and there were no superheroes just then, roads were destroyed and everything was on fire, but R.A.M.P.A.G.E Wasn't created back then so the city was in the hands of Doomfist So it was a pretty rough time for the citizens and seniors, people were clueless and didn't have the brains to solve who was doing this mess! So all they did was stand as still as a sculpture, R.A.M.P.A.G.E's weak Ness was stress and he didn't like stress, so here's the origin

Henry was a smart guy, and was always making effort on his work until his life changed... One day when he was walking home with his friend named Nade, they saw an unidentified flying object, and it Came in front of them, there was an alien that came out of the U.F.O He had a nitro charged weapon, then he told me, "with great power, comes with great responsibilities" Henry's weakness is running... Henry was very confused and he thought Aliens did not never existed so he didn't really listen and was just thinking "this is nonsense!", and didn't take the alien seriously, until the alien fused a giant pill like shape Into Henry and passed out... Nade was terrified and did not know What do, but luckily, Henry's mom came out her home and saw Henry and called the ambulance, then after a few weeks, he was now a super hero woken up, his mouth turned blue and had a stinging pain in his mouth, all of a sudden, a big thunder beam came out of his mouth and panicked and destroyed the vase on the table, Nade came to visit Henry, and when Nade saw the little black smog, He asked "why was there smoke on the table"? Asked Nade, Henry did not know why he felt so he felt very weird, so Henry decided to forget about it so he just watched TV, but when Henry saw the news, there was a thick smog in the building, with people running, cars beeping, the only culprit was Doomfist...

Apparently, Doomfist was actually bullied when he was a kid, he did not like it and was filled with hatred and destruction, then when he was in his early 20s, he created and fused powers in to him, making him Powerful, in fact, he created these things called "witherbot" and they are on their way to Earth, who he calls "minions", Henry knew he had to do something. Henry had a smart mind, but doesn't know what he actually doing so he thought of something dumb: stopping Doomfist, Henry told Nade he'll go out to confront Doomfist, Nade didn't like the idea, but he just let Henry go, he also asked Nade if he wanted to be his Assistant, but Nade is a lazy bum and wants to sit on the couch all day so he wasn't a big help at all

When Henry arrived he pointed his pointer finger to Doomfist. Saying "Hey! Stop that!" But as soon as he did, Doomfist went 30 feet up and said "I want my mommy!" Henry put him down but steady and gentle and as he did, an earthquake came cause of Doomfist's heavy weight, and was confused on why he had these powers, Doomfist became angry and threw a car at Henry, and as soon it came flying right at Henry, he jumped but as he did, he went 15 feet up in the air, Henry was scared because he was afraid of heights, but luckily he figured how to get down, so he wasn't too worried, Doomfist was already mad enough to send in a beam, so Henry made a run for it, Doomfist was kind of chunky and didn't run as fast, but luckily, Henry escaped, Henry stripes with wings on the back with a star in the middle, and called himself R.A.M.P.A.G.E,he trained for a few weeks in a Secret Dimension

Called the Saturn Arena X, where he would practice to be able to control his powers,the host was name Junifer,she welcomed R.A.M.P.A.G.E and told him to wait for a Trainer to help Him, after 5 minutes,he found his trainer named Cobalt,
"Welcome to Saturn Arena X,my name is Cobalt,I will be your trainer to day"

,Sweet!Said R.A.M.P.A.G.E,so where do we start?

"In the Practice Zone,"said Cobalt,R.A.M.P.A.G.E thought he would be using telekinesis, kicking and throwing lots of people and also Punching people,but he saw Dopey Dummies and Targets,and he Thought to himself:"what a ripoff!".

"So tell me R.A.M.P.A.G.E,what are your cool, and strong powers?R.A.M.P.A.G.E knew that he would forget his powers so he listed all three of his powers on a piece of paper and gave it to Cobalt.After that,Cobalt left the Practice zone and when he did,Henry plopped himself on the The Practice Zone and started punching dudes and using his thunder breath at the targets,this continued for a few days,then after that,he felt very strong,he went to the portal back To Earth,and as he did he shouted-

"Bye Cobalt!See you around!"And then went back to earth and decided To make a plan

Henry thought that Doomfist was already bad enough to Destroy the whole world, so when Henry had enough free time at school,he would come up with a plan on how to stop Doomfist,he d Id a lot of planning and finally came up with a plan,Doomfist's weaknesss was none other than only, the mental power, powerful was telekinesis so if Henry catches Doomfist with his telekinesis He would send Doomfist back to where he belonged to,after creating stop Doomfist, cause he had school, he has homework, has a mother, and what else! So Henry tried to predict on where he would destroy the city, so he stayed up all night, drank lots of energy drinks and doing so He decided he needed to to fight Doomfist, or confront Doomfist, so after predicting where was in the middle of the city, and sure enough, he saw him destroying buildings and wrecking havoc, and destruction

Doomfist caught his body and was very angry and aggressive

And caught R.A.M.P.A.G.E's eyes and he was willing to start up a fight so he strongly threw objects at Harry, but blasted all of it with his thunder breath and flew at him, Doomfist tried to grab him, but Henry was very nimble, and very fast at flying around Doomfist and he was unstoppable and too fast and made Doomfist dizzy "come on R.A.M.P.A.G.E! Give up!" said Doomfist "'I will never give up until your are out of Earth!" Henry cried, but Henry did not realize this: the witherbots have arrived... They were setting buildings on fire, taking people and turning them into slaves, it was madness, Henry knew there was still a chance to stop Doomfist so he did everything to distract Doomfist and destroyed The robots before stopping Doomfist.

Then Doomfist sent a ray, a shining ray and used my thunder breath But then everything exploded... It was bad and very terrifying horrible, When Henry woke up he felt funny and weird, he saw buildings as Cows, saw the ground as Cream Cheese, Doomfist gave him The Food effect...

"Argh now I'm hungry! But I'm not too hungry" He decided to use his telekinesis and put the buildings back together, but what he accidentally put back together was McDonald's, he doesn't like that type Of restaurant, then he decided to go home and the food effect wore of... When he got home he saw his mom at the kitchen, cooking dinner, when she saw him, she ran to him with open arms and hugged Henry

"Don't ever leave again my sugar baby!" He was still embarrassed by that nickname, but he let it slide, he went up to his room and rested For a while and then fell asleep peacefully and comfortably, then he had trapped. But luckily he woke up from this sickening dream, he went Downstairs and made breakfast. After breakfast he went to watch The news, but then he saw something that caught his eye: There was A Cataclysm and it was devouring the city whole like how a snake would swallow their prey whole. Who was it? It's pretty obvious who it exactly was: DOOMFIST, DUN DUN DUUUN

"Aw come on! I just want to rest!" Oh well, time to put on my supersuit. But when he went to grab it, his suit was missing!

Mom! Where's my supersuit?!

It's in the laundry! AW COME ON! So when Henry went out to save The world, he was in his pajamas with pictures of rockets

"I wish Cobalt gave me a spare super suit!" He saw Doomfist with his so called witherbots and they were trying to destroy the Earth this time! R.A.M.P.A.G.E flew 100 miles per hour and blasted his thunder breath at one of the bots and disintegrated them

"Oh no it's R.A.M.P.A.G.E, I'm soooooooooooooo scared!" Doomfist said in a womanly voice, and threw an object at R.A.M.P.A.G.E but dodged it

"STOP!" Henry shouted, you don't have to do this... Doomfist froze and stopped. I know you can get rid of this hate... If you can, then you can get rid of that evil in you... Doomfist felt bad, and said-

"I'm sorry for destroying everything... I promise I won't do this again". Then he used some force of magic and fixed everything in one clap, and went home. But imagine if everyone... Changed from criminal to a do-gooder, what if everyone helped out, what if crime never existed?
